

Founded in 1966, the School of Travel Industry Management (TIM) pioneered the concept of integrating all aspects of travel—hospitality, tourism, and transportation—under a single discipline. Faculty and students are able to draw upon Hawaii’s unique location as a premier tourism destination that provides a living laboratory for undergraduate, graduate, and professional education and research. The School is accredited by ACPHA. Its facilities include the Sunset Reference Center with one of the largest specialized collections of tourism resource materials in the region; the Gee Technology Center with an IT classroom, videoconferencing and distance learning capabilities; the Leong Hop & Bernice C. Loui Computer Lab; and the Center for Tourism Policy Studies, which conducts applied research and provides executive training programs and technical assistance to the industry.
