

San Diego State University
Assistant Professor Position in Payne School of Hospitality & Tourism Management
Fall 2018

The L. Robert Payne School of Hospitality and Tourism Management at San Diego State University is seeking a passionate teacher-scholar as an Assistant Professor faculty member for a Fall 2018 appointment. Ideal candidates embrace a leadership development mindset, are energized by engaging students in integrative learning and high-impact experiences, demonstrate enthusiasm for a research agenda aligned with the experience economy context, and a genuine desire to get involved on and off-campus. Preference will be given to candidates who are driven to mentor and develop students toward achieving their passions, and have practical professional experience in an area of hospitality management, guest service management or any field focused on providing memorable guest experiences. A doctoral degree in hospitality, business, organizational psychology or human resource development by the date of appointment is required.

To be in a better position to serve a fast growing and highly diverse student body, and to fulfill the University's commitment to promoting diversity and excellence on our campus, we actively seek candidates demonstrating experience working with or mentoring students from under-represented communities.

Application review begins September 18, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.
